

Martin G. Curley
Director, IT Innovation
Intel Corporation

Adjunct Professor, National University of Ireland, Maynooth

Martin Curley is Senior Principal Engineer and Global Director of IT Innovation and Research at Intel Corporation managing a network of IT Innovation Centres catalysing IT Innovation.

Previously Martin held a number of IT Management positions for Intel including Director of IT Strategy and Technology based in Sacramento, California and Fab14 Automation Manager based in Dublin, Ireland. Martin has also held IT engineering and management positions at General Electric in Ireland and Philips in the Netherlands.

Martin is author of "Managing Information Technology for Business Value" published by Intel Press, January 04.

Martin has a degree in Electronic Engineering and a Masters in Business Studies from University College Dublin, Ireland.